Gold Standard Is Best Safeguard For
The Middle Classes

GOLD-STANDARD money makes governments sound. That is the reason why government-minded England has sacrificed so much to restore it. But sound money also restores the safeguard of free institutions—the "middle class."

In the same persons or others. Professional men can now live as well as laborers.

University professors no longer starve. Business men can buy new goods for the money they received for the old. Savings can be invested. Banks are safe, and can loan money on good security. These things are socially quite as important as government. They are the reason why France and Italy must also face the problem of revaluing their currency, and placing it on a gold basis.

Economically, that is possible now, in both countries. Politically, it is difficult only because the politicians who would have to do it fear they would lose the votes of people who would thereby discover that they had not told them the truth before.

Salesmanship and politics assume that people have feelings and moral impulses, but no interest in using their brains to think with. The mayor of San Francisco issues a statement arguing that a certain business contract, to dispose of the city's electric power, is good business and is the best that can be got.

Nobody cares. He calls those who disagree with him jackasses, and a few more things. Magnificent! He shows that municipal distribution of this power is now impossible, and can only become possible under certain by no means assured condition. Nobody notices the mistake in their application of the claims himself the friend of the words "municipal ownership." Great applause! Everything in the statement that appeals to the intelligence is overlooked.

Everything that impugns somebody's moral motives, or that exposes their envious and spiteful. That is by the assembled politicians. They probably know better themselves. Like salesmen, jury lawyers and their fellow-politicians, they assume that the people do not. Do they underestimate the intelligence of the people, or are the people mistaken in their disgusted conclusion that their representatives are as foolish as they pretend?

THE anti-evolutionists may think it no disqualification to be ignorant of fossils. Their reliance is the Bible. Their most unfortunate handicap is that they are ignorant of the Bible. For the Bible has a history, whether they know it or not. Its books were written at various times and circumstances, and transmitted in various ways. Much is known about these facts.

Even the doctrine of verbal inspiration and literal infallibility has a history. No such claim is made in the Bible itself, for its books. It traces back to the claim made for the Bible, by others. It is known when and by whom this claim was formulated, and what forms it has taken in various ages and places. All these things, and the Bible, its interpretation, and doctrines about its authority, have a history.

And the Fundamentalists leaders do not know that history. If they did, they would not be so sure that their particular view, among the many that the Christian world has held, is the only one entitled to be called Christian.

YOU can't even read your Bible without the evolutionary method—unless you are willing to believe that the polytheistic Jehovah of Genesis and Job, the One God of the Prophets, and the Heavenly Father of Jesus are all identical conceptions of equal and infallible authority; that the fighting tribal deity who ordered the Israelites in Egypt to steal, and who hated and destroyed the enemies of his particular tribe, and the Author of Righteousness of the Prophets and Apostles are equally adequate descriptions of the infinite; that the voice walking in the garden and the Maker of Heaven and Earth are equally binding imagery.

The very puzzles of the Bible itself, over which casuists have disputed and scoffers have gloated, disappear when you regard the Bible progressively as all modern man has progressively done. The conflict is not between Evolution and the Bible. Evolution is the very genius of the Bible itself.

TWO ARE SHOT IN RIOT AT BURBANK

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Two youths suffered slight gunshot wounds today, following a riot staged by a crowd of 50 persons protesting against the annexation of Burbank to Los Angeles.

The demonstrators had gathered at the home of J. W. Fawkes, Burbank leader of the annexation movement, which lost by a two to one vote at the polls Tuesday.

Police said the crowd had threatened depredations, and was setting fires when the shotgun was fired from a room of the Fawkes home, wounding Glen Lockwood and Cecil Kinnaird. Both will recover.

Three More Quakes Rock Santa Barbara

12 WORKMEN INJURED AS DEBRIS FALLS

New Tremor Sways Buildings and Sends Hundreds Scurrying Into Streets

PHONE GIRLS ON JOB

Switchboard Operators Remain at Posts Until Ordered to Quit Structure

(By United Press)

SANTA BARBARA, July 3.—Three distinct earth tremors threw a fresh quake scare into Santa Barbara residents today. Twelve workmen suffered minor injuries when loose debris was shaken from wrecked buildings, and minor damage was done to brick residences.

The first and most severe of the tremors occurred at 8:38 a. m. It was of brief duration, but swayed buildings and sent hundreds of persons to the streets.

Subsequent quakes at 10:30 and 10:46 were felt throughout the city, but caused no further damage.

State street, a row of wreckage for 14 blocks, was closed entirely to pedestrians. Marines with drawn bayonets picketed the sidewalks.

The spirit of Santa Barbara's noted playgrounds will not be lost during the program of restoration. Recreation resorts were reopened today, in temporary structures, in parks and on the beaches.

An open-air theater for vaudeville and movies was set up to accommodate 1,000 persons. Bath-houses were thrown open. Country clubs resumed their normal schedules.

Will Celebrate Fourth
Tomorrow there will be the regular Independence Day celebration. Bands will play and orators will address the crowds in the parks. The annual boat and yacht races will be held in the harbor.

Many of Santa Barbara's finest buildings have been condemned to fall before the wrecking crews preparing for construction of a new business district.

When the third jolt caused the building to crackle again, the girls were ordered out. Santa Barbara was again cut off from telephone communication with the outside.

Several millionaires' mansions along the mesa, Santa Barbara's Gold Coast, were severely shaken and damaged. None of them collapsed, however.

No one was seriously injured. Several workmen had narrow escapes from falling debris.

The ruins of Santa Barbara gave up the body of another quake victim today.

With the finding in the wreckage of a rooming house of the body of Charles Knudson, the toll of death in the recent earthquake rose to 14.

The walls of condemned buildings were to be dynamited and pulled down today.

Slight Quake Rocks Santa Ana

An earthquake rocked Santa Ana at 10:20 o'clock this morning. Though the oscillation lasted only about 10 seconds, it was distinctly felt throughout the entire city. It was particularly noticeable in the upper floors of the First National bank building. The tremor created some excitement in the downtown district, where speculations were rife as to the prospects of Professor Bandand's quake predictions for the early part of July.

IMMIGRATION PLACED BEFORE PACIFIC MEET

(By United Press)

HONOLULU, T. H., July 3.—The first institute of Pacific Relations, but two days old, faced today its first great test in scheduled round table discussions of Pacific immigration problems.

There were some evidences of apprehension among delegates over the outcome, but leaders expressed confidence that the policy of frank discussion will prevent serious differences of opinion. War in the Pacific as a result of the east's invasion of western markets, unless the east and west learn to cooperate, was seen by C. C. Batchelder, American speaker, at the public session last night on the general topic of "Industrialization in the Far East."

Topics of four round table sessions held in secret Thursday were announced as including the causes of and consequences arising from the white race's tradition of superiority over the yellow race.

Speakers from Australia, Japan, China and the United States agreed that racial prejudice is one of the outstanding obstacles to permanent peace.

The instinct of nationalism and inter-racial antagonism was analyzed without any attempt at finding a solution. Three experts reported the results of an extensive examination of sociological differences between the east and west.

Other round table discussions were on the relative contributions of Christianity, Buddhism and Confucianism to civilization, and the varying degrees of autonomy in Australia, New Zealand and Canada, states of the British empire.

SEND U. S. WARSHIP FOR MISSIONARIES

LONDON, July 3.—The Hong Kong correspondent of the Times reports that an American destroyer has been sent to Yung Kong in Kwang Tung province, following the non-return of a launch dispatched to bring American missionaries to Hongkong.

The message said that anxiety for the safety of the missionaries caused the sending of the launch. Twelve foreign warships, including four British and four French, are on watch at Canton.

Shameen, the foreign colony, was reported quiet and the Chinese were said to have departed from the vicinity.

Three foreign women have remained at Shameen to help garrison the place.

The Times Hongkong correspondent says that Canton is "now governed by commissions in Soviet style."

SPEED TRAP NOW LEGAL IN COUNTY

May Be Lawfully Employed By Officers in Catching Motorists Until July 24

HIGH COURT DECIDES

Supreme Tribunal Sustains Decision Here; New Statute Soon Alters Matters

THE SPEED TRAP was returned today from two years of exile, with an announcement that the California supreme court has sustained the Orange county superior court in a test case that upsets a portion of the state motor vehicle act.

The speed trap's stay will be brief, however—so brief that officers probably will not revive its use. On July 24, the speed trap will go back into exile, a new law having been adopted, making use of the speed trap by an officer a criminal offense.

Victory of District Attorney A. P. Nelson over attorneys for the Automobile Club of Southern California, who opposed Nelson's attack upon constitutionality of the motor vehicle law, was therefore rendered empty of results. Unable to abolish the speed trap in one way, its enemies circumvented it in another.

Motorist Takes Appeal
Outlawed by the breed act in 1923, the trap was befriended by Orange county officials, who continued its use until the test case was precipitated by Victor Fleming, Los Angeles motorist, who appealed for a $25 fine based upon speed trap evidence. Automobile club attorneys handled Fleming's case, which went through the entire range of California legal jurisdiction, from justice court to supreme court.

The supreme court's ruling upholds Nelson's stand in the case and vindicates the judgment of ex-Judge Frank C. Drumm, who ruled that the section of the motor vehicle law which abolished the speed trap was unconstitutional.

Attacks on Four Grounds
Nelson attacked the constitutionality of the section when Fleming made the speed trap an issue in his resistance to a fine for speeding. The motor vehicle act forbids admission of speed trap evidence by a court. Nelson based his attack upon four chief grounds: That the section was an attempt to make a special rule governing the courts in favor of the state; that it was an infringement of the legislative branch upon the judicial branch of government; that it deprived the defendant of his right to examine witnesses in his own defense; and that it was not mentioned in the title of the act.

When the case came before Judge Drumm, on appeal from Justice G. H. Morrison's court at Seal Beach, where Fleming had been fined for speeding at a rate of 51 miles an hour, the superior court ruled in favor of the district attorney. Fleming's attorneys then carried the matter to the district court of appeals, where the superior court was reversed.

Appeals to Supreme Court
Nelson then appealed to the supreme court. While questioning the jurisdiction of the court of appeals, one of the best legal attorneys in the state, was greatly amused at defense attorneys' plans to take the Scopes case to the federal court in Nashville.

"Both the United States and state courts have held that a federal court cannot enjoin a state court in a criminal procedure unless bankruptcy is involved and the origin of the case was in the federal court," McKenzie said.

"This case is a criminal procedure, bankruptcy is not involved and the case did not originate in a federal court."

In case the trial is taken away from Dayton, the principal loss would consist in anticipated profit.

Arrest Girls As Bandit Suspects
LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Mildred Cohn, 22, and Mrs. Maybelle Berry, 20, were placed in the city jail today on suspicion of having committed a number of daring holdups during the past two weeks.

The girls were arrested in the apartment which they occupied. Officers found a .44 calibre revolver in the girls' room which answers the description given by victims of a pair of "flapper" bandits at the weapon used, according to police reports.

Two men, John W. Brunley, 39, and Lulu Berry, brother-in-law of Mrs. Berry, were arrested shortly after the girls and held by police questioning.

DATE OF FLIGHT CHANGED
SAN DIEGO, July 3.—The navy's non-stop flight to Hawaii was set eight days ahead of schedule today, when Adm. S. S. Robinson ordered that the three seaplanes that are to make the flight leave San Diego at daybreak, August 25.

Amundsen Will Try Flight By Zeppelin

OSLO, July 3.—Captain Raold Amundsen, Arctic flyer, proposes to attempt an air journey by Zeppelin from Spitzbergen to Alaska, according to the newspaper Aftenposten, which interviewed him aboard a steamer off Aalesund. The paper quoted him as saying his recent attempt to reach the pole by airplane was only a preliminary to the new adventure with a Zeppelin, he holding this latter type of aircraft preferable for polar exploration.

INSIST MONKEY MAN TRIAL GO TO U. S. COURT

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, July 3.—Attorneys for John T. Scopes, in his trial for alleged violation of the Tennessee anti-evolution law, will file a bill for an injunction which would place the case in a federal court at Nashville or Chattanooga, instead of the district court at Dayton. Clarence Darrow, one of Scopes' lawyers, announced here today.

Darrow revealed the drastic change in trial plans, in an interview immediately after his arrival here from a conference in New York City with John R. Neal, Dudley Field Malone and Bainbridge Colby.

The attorneys definitely decided to file the petition for the injunction, Darrow declared, and this action probably will be taken next Monday or Tuesday.

"We have two major reasons for this decision," Darrow said. "We want to stop the ballyhoo now unfortunately surrounding this trial. It is a serious trial, but the public driven on by sensational reports, considers it partly as a melodrama, partly as light comedy."

"By changing the trial to federal jurisdiction, all this would be changed."

"There would be no witnesses, no vast crowds. Attorneys would simply argue the case on its legal merits before a dignified judge."

"The second reason for our decision is the conviction that this case is of such nationwide importance that it belongs in a federal court. A decision by a federal court would have far more importance as a national precedent than a decision by a state court. Considering the facts that three states already have anti-evolution laws, the other states are considering passing them, and that anti-scientific measures of similar nature may crop up at any time, the importance of establishing a national precedent cannot be exaggerated."

DAYTON PREPARES FOR BIG TRIAL
DAYTON, Tenn., July 3.—Assured by local authorities that the Scopes evolution case cannot be transferred to a federal court, Dayton today continued its preparations for the trial, scheduled to open a week hence.

Installation of press wires, erection of hot dog and refreshment stands and a general cleaning up of the town went on without interruption.

Gen. Ben McKenzie, former district attorney general, considered one of the best legal attorneys in the state, was greatly amused at defense attorneys' plans to take the Scopes case to the federal court in Nashville.

"Both the United States and state courts have held that a federal court cannot enjoin a state court in a criminal procedure unless bankruptcy is involved and the origin of the case was in the federal court," McKenzie said.

COAL MINERS' STRIKE OVER U. S. FEARED

General Tieup Threatens In Fight Between Union Workers and Operators

SHARP ISSUE DRAWN

Both Sides Are Prepared To Battle Question of Organization to Finish

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Threat of a general strike of the nation's half million coal miners, which would completely tie up next winter's fuel supply, has aroused government observers here, who are watching with anxiety a situation daily growing in gravity.

An issue has been drawn between operators and miners which is threatening the life of the union organization, and both sides are prepared to fight it out.

For weeks, the trouble has been brewing quietly. It had its origin in the northern West Virginia fields, where the union has virtually been driven out of the state. Production of union coal represents only about 10 per cent of the total production of the region, where five years ago the fields were nearly 90 per cent unionized.

Numerous operators, contending that they could not mine coal on a $7.25 union wage scale, have closed their pits, to reopen them a few weeks later on a non-union wage scale of between $4 and $5. Since that time, other operators in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky and some other coal producing states, have taken similar action, according to word received here. Union leaders see in this general movement a concerted effort to kill the United Mine Workers organization throughout the country.

The chief weapon the union holds is a general strike of both anthracite and bituminous fields, and the warning that it might be used was given by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, in addressing the tri-state anthracite convention at Scranton, Pa.

MINERS' CONVENTION APPROVES DEMANDS
SCRANTON, Pa., July 3.—Adoption as a whole of the demands recommended by their committee was given by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, in addressing the tri-state anthracite convention at Scranton, Pa.

The demands include a 10 per cent wage increase, the check-off, recognition of the union, a dollar a day increase for day employees, quicker adjustment of grievances, and a two-year working agreement.

The first of the conferences with the operators will be held at Atlantic City, July 9.

BRITISH MINERS REFUSE OFFER
LONDON, July 3.—Miners' delegates, in conference here today, refused terms of the owners, based on a profit-sharing arrangement, for adjustment of differences between the two groups since the May, 1924, miners' agreement has been denounced. This rejection caused concern about a possible strike or lockout in coal mining industry, but it is believed the government will not let the situation progress to such a point.

Fireman Injured In $100,000 Blaze

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—A fireman was probably fatally injured, and damage estimated at $100,000 was caused by fire which swept from the Vickers machine shop and four adjacent structures early today.

Luke J. Murphy, 24, suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries when he fell 25 feet from the roof of the burning building.

The blaze was caused by explosion of an acetylene tank in the machine shop. It spread quickly and damaged four adjoining buildings before it was extinguished.

Mrs. Coolidge Nearly Run Down By Cops

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 3.—Four motorcycle policemen this morning narrowly missed running down Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the President.

Mrs. Coolidge, with her secret service guard, James Haley, was out for a morning walk. The four motorcycle officers, en route to White Court, roared around a turn in the road at high speed.

The officer stationed at the gates of White Court shouted a warning. Mrs. Coolidge leaped to one side of the road, Haley to the other, and the machines whirled between them and disappeared into the White Court grounds without slackening speed.

LIBERALS WIN IN CONVENTION OF BAPTISTS

(By United Press)

SEATTLE, Wn., July 3.—The Baptist war is over. Heralds of peace were trumpeting the glad tidings as delegates to the Northern Baptist convention here convened for the business of today.

Modernists marched as victors off the battleground of Liberalism and Fundamentalism, but the upholders of the "faith of our fathers" did not meet an ignominious defeat. They went down with colors flying and gave notice that they will come up again.

In the most exciting day of the sessions in Masonic temple, the convention yesterday denied the high hopes of the Fundamentalists. The resolution to recall radical missionaries from foreign lands and replace them with evangelical members was rejected by a vote of 742 to 574, and in its place was voted the advice that the missions board use its own judgment in conserving denominational interests in foreign lands.

Likewise, the extreme opposition of the Fundamentalists to the seating of the New York City Park Avenue Baptist church delegates was snowed under by a vote of 912 to 364.

The fundamentalist mass attack to recall Modernist missionaries was even more determined, but it lost when the convention decided to subordinate doctrinal beliefs and wage a campaign for the general good of the church.

Following their defeat on the floor of the convention, Fundamentalists held an adjourned meeting last night, in which they laid plans for the formation of a new foreign mission society, with teachers who would support the patriarchal faith of Baptists.

The Fundamentalists also gave notice of launching a move to read the liberal Rockefeller church out of the Baptist denomination.

PLEDGES AID OF AMERICA TO EUROPE

President Asserts Nations Should Unite in Treaty If They Fear Future

TALKS IN CAMBRIDGE

Speaks at Anniversary of Washington Taking Continental Army Command

(By United Press)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 3.—Counseling European nations to enter pacts for their mutual security if they are distrustful of each other, President Coolidge today pledged to such covenants the moral support of the U. S. government, in the interests of lasting peace.

In a brief passage in a speech otherwise devoted to an analysis of the character and achievements of George Washington, whose 150th anniversary of taking command of the Continental army was the occasion of a celebration here today which the president addressed, Mr. Coolidge permitted himself to make this important declaration of foreign policy and declared his wish that America take the leadership of nations in placing reliance on the "good faith of mankind."

Covenants for Security
"If the people of the old world are mutually distrustful of each other, let them enter into mutual covenants for their mutual security," he said, "and when such covenants have been made, let them be solemnly observed, no matter what the sacrifice."

"They have settled the far more difficult problems of reparations, they are in the process of funding their debts to us, why can they not agree on permanent terms of peace and fully reestablish international faith and credit?"

If there be differences which cannot be adjusted at the moment, if there be conditions which cannot be foreseen, let them be resolved in the future by methods of arbitration and by the forms of judicial determination.

Moral Support of U. S.
"While our own country should refrain from making political commitments where it does not have political interests, such covenants would always have the moral support of our government and could not fail to have the commendation of public opinion of the world."

"Such a course would be sure to endow the participating nations with an abundant material and spiritual reward. On what other basis can there be any encouragement for a disposition to attempt to finance the revival of Europe? The world has tried war with force and has utterly failed. The only hope of success lies in peace with justice."

No other principle conforms to the teaching of Washington; no other standard is worthy of the spirit of America; no other course makes so much promise for the regeneration of the world."

Peace Policy Expansion
The president's remarks were regarded as an expansion of his well developed policy of striving for world peace and in behalf of American entry into the world court. At the same time, his advocacy of European security pacts was distinctly new and expected to provoke reverberations in European chancelleries. By some it was regarded as a blow to the League of Nations.

Some of the president's audience believed he was enunciating a new interpretation of Washington's Farewell Address, which counselled against entanglements with foreign nations, for in connection with his declaration of moral support for security pacts, he intimated his belief that it was a course that Washington would approve.

"Washington demonstrated," said the president, "that more progress can be made by co-operation than by conflict."

"The world has not outgrown, it can never outgrow, the absolute necessity for conformity to these eternal principles. I want to see America assume a leadership among the nations in the reliance upon the good faith of mankind."

For Civilization's Progress
"I do not see how civilization can expect permanent progress on any other theory. If what is saved in the productive peace of today is to be lost in the destructive war of tomorrow, the people of this earth can look forward to nothing but everlasting servitude. There is no justification of hope. This was not the conception which Washington had of life."

In summing up Washington's achievements and paying tribute to his character, the president said: "I think we may regard George Washington as the first lay citizen of the world of all time. He was one in whom the elements were so evenly blended, so accurately proportioned, that his character has well denied analysis. Others have created wider commotions and deeper impressions in the hour of their eminence. But we

FIGURES DISCLOSE EXACT COST OF EDUCATING EACH PUPIL IN PUBLIC SCHOOL

Figured to the penny, the cost of providing education for Santa Ana students was presented today by Frank L. Andrews, secretary of the Santa Ana board of education, to his associates on the school board. The costs are: Per pupil for Santa Ana Junior college, $349.52. Per pupil for Santa Ana high school, $148.57. Per pupil for Santa Ana elementary schools, $78.72. It is pointed out that, wherever costs are figured out, the elementary expenditure per pupil is very much lower than for high schools or junior colleges. It was stated that Santa Ana costs per pupil are about an average for California schools. The report made by Secretary Andrews shows, for the year ending June 30, 1925, a total expenditure of $260,405.15 for the elementary schools of the city; of $19,093.40 for the high school; of $61,934.11 for the junior college.

The total bonded indebtedness of the Santa Ana elementary district, which comprises the city of Santa Ana alone, is $587,000, of which $26,000 is paid off annually. Some of these bonds were voted as far back as 1909.

The bonded indebtedness of the high school district, which includes several common school districts outside of Santa Ana, is $459,000, of which $21,000 is paid off each year.

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

TROPIC-WEAVE SUITS

Keeping cool when it's hot has been the aim of men since the dawn of time and will be his game till the crack of doom. For years, ice-water and electric fans were considered the greatest coolers-off, but the relief they afford is half imaginary and wholly temporary. Science and sense declare that the only way to feel cool and comfortable during the heated term is to dress in light, loose, air-open clothes, which let the body breathe through its myriad of pores. These, in every healthy adult, exude two pounds of water a day and, if covered too thickly and warmly, become clogged and fall in their function. If you swam in cold water all day, you could keep cool all day, but what man has a poor fish? Don't go on enduring the heat with the resignation of the martyrs being dipped in oil or fed to the lions. Don't be so busy being uncomfortable, that you have no time to be comfortable, like the person who enjoys life.

Americans lead the world in designing and developing tropic-type, porous-woven suits. Fabrics such as linen, linen crash, wool crash, mohair and mesh-contraction worsteds and homespun are astonishingly cool stuffs deserving of much wider acceptance.
Contrary to common belief you may procure these in dark shades as well as light and in patterned effect as well as plain colors.

Pictured in the accompanying sketch is a smart tropic-type linen suit for the thick of summer. It is a single-breasted, 2-button and patch-pocketed, with the front rounded off. The trousers are straight-cut, though in no sense balloon-like. Peaked lapels may be chosen instead of the semi-peaked style shown. Selected in light, cheerful shades and patterns such suits look and are much cooler than heavy, heating wool.

Don't be like an hourglass. The more time it takes, the more its sand runs out. Obtain your hot-weather clothes as early as possible in the season, and get the longest span of usefulness out of them. Be mindful, too, that filmy, mesh-weave materials, which almost dodge the shears and run away from the needle, demand the staunchest character of tailor work and be prepared to pay a fair price for fine quality. From rocking the cradle to sewing a seam there is no substitute for the human hand.

YOUNG WOMEN ARE ADMITTED TO SISTERHOOD

On the Feast of the Visitation, July 2, the beautiful new chapel at "Nazareth," motherhouse and no-vitate of the Sisters of St. Joseph, in Orange, was the scene of an impressive religious ceremony, the reception and profession of 32
young women into the sisterhood, in the presence of relatives and friends of the sisters.

The ceremonies, at which Rt.
Rev. Msgr. Cawley, vicar general of the Los Angeles diocese, presided, found a fit setting in the new chapel.

Immediately preceding solemn mass, the reception of the holy habit was the first ceremony. Nineteen young women entered the chapel and made their formal request to be invested with the religious habit of the Sisters of St.
Joseph. At their withdrawal to assume the garb, 10 novices approached the altar to pronounce their first vows. Immediately afterward, three sisters advanced and asked to be allowed to make final vows.
They then retired to their places until the consecration of the mass, when they pronounced their perpetual vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience.

livered an appropriate sermon for the occasion. The ceremonies closed with the Te Deum.

Present in the sanctuary were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Cawley, offi-ciant; the Rev. H. Eummelen, celebrant of the mass; the Rev.
Father Peter, C. P. deacon; the Rev. Francis Giehe, O. F. M., sub-

Installation Dinner
 Ends With Merry
 Theater Party

That "always fair weather" which results when "good Lions get together" reigned at St. Ann's inn last night, and later at the recently completed theater at Orana where Lions and Lionesses of the Santa Ana den completed a happy evening in honor of the installation of their president, Harold Wahlberg.

Anticipating an evening of dancing to follow the inauguration dinner, the assembled guests were given a complete surprise by the theater party arranged by Lyle Anderson, chairman of the entertainment committee. The entire affair moved with the utmost dispatch, Mr. Wahlberg fulfilling his promise to have the members seated at the tables for a 6:30 dinner. A few late-comers were greeted noisily by the table nearest the door, appointed by the president to shriek the accepted Lion formula, "You're late! You're late! You're late! You're late!"

An elaborate course dinner, delicious in every detail, was served by the inn management to over a hundred Lions and Lionesses together with guests from Anaheim, Orange and Huntington Beach dens. As the dinner drew to a close, the club songs offered at intervals by the group to Alan Revell's colorful, chromatic accompaniment, gave way to a very brief program introducing two pupils of the Santa Ana Conservatory, Miss Louisa Mullino, a violin student coming to this city from the college at Claremont, Tex., and Miss Nellie Mai Chapman, her accompanist, student and secretary at the conservatory with C. D. Cianfoni. "By the Waters of Minnetonka" was their choice and gave much enjoyment to the audience.

Installation of officers followed, beginning with the directors, Roy King and S. B. Kaufman, of whom only Mr. King was present. It continued with Bruce Monroe and Lyle Anderson, re-installed as lion tamer and tail twister, respectively; Homer Chaney, treasurer; Edward Holmes, secretary (re-installed); three vice-presidents, Warren Hillard, the Rev. Perry Stutz, and Edward Hummel, and finally the president, Harold Wahlberg, returned for a second term in recognition of the splendid success of his first term.

Mr. Wahlberg refrained from making a formal inaugural speech but spoke briefly and entertainingly of his past year's work and his plans for the future. During the course of his remarks he named his appointive officers, Edward Hummel, editor of "The Lion Truth," Alan Revell, pianist; James McDill, chorister; Elliott Rowland, program director; C. E. Stewar, publisher, and Elliott Rowland, historian. He also spoke of the courtesy and generosity of H. W. Turner and A. J. Ralph in presenting the beautiful flowers which adorned each table.

Following the installation ceremonies conducted by the club's first president, Dr. Elliott Rowland, the evening's surprise was sprung by Lyle Anderson who announced that the entire crowd was to motor to the new theater where the Griff Barnett Players were entering upon their second week with "The Warning" as the current offering. In a few minutes the inn dining room was deserted and a merry cavalcade wended its way northward through the city. At the theater the Lions were extended every courtesy including ample parking space for cars. They were in time for the curtain's rise and enjoyed the evening's offering immensely. Their interest communicated itself to the players and in a between-act talk by Mr. Barnett, director and leading man, the company's appreciation of the presence of the Lions was gracefully expressed. Mr. Barnett easily leads his company in point of dramatic ability and stage presence, and gave a consistently excellent performance. A notable thing about the performance was the fact that the players all seemed to be absolutely letter-perfect in their parts—a difficult thing in stock productions.

A solo by Lyle Anderson, "Oh Night In June," and popular ensemble numbers by the Lion quartette, Messrs. Anderson, Elliott Rowland, Bruce Monroe and Fred Wilde, with E. M. Sundquist as pianist, enlivened the between-acts interval while the theater orchestra gave most enjoyable numbers.

With the installation festivity now a thing of the past, the service club is anticipating a series of unusual social features at which their wives will be honored. These will include a Trabuco canyon party and a hike to the top of Saddleback for the athletically inclined as well as dancing and beach parties. All were hoping that the honor of entertaining Mrs. Jack Riley and Jack Riley II, wife and son of the district governor, who were last night's special guests, might come again in the near future, and that Governor Riley might visit the club soon after his return from International.

The hostess was assisted in serving delectable refreshments of cake, sandwiches and leech punch by the Misses Inez and Alice Noe.

Informal Program by Brilliant Pianist At Gustlin Home

When Genius comes amongst us, all that we lesser mortals can do is to stand and gaze, and "thank whatever gods there be" for the opportunity to see Genius and know Genius and hear the fluttering of her wings. This opportunity was given a favored few last night at the Clarence Gustlin home on North Main street where Mr. Gustlin was host to a group of musical friends, asked to meet his houseguest, Maurice Zam of New York City. There, the fluttering of wings made music of so pronounced a quality that it left everyone breathlessly eager to hear the silver sounds again.

Never has so brilliant and withal, so human a pianist been in Santa Ana and seldom has it been given anyone in this city to enjoy true music under such peculiarly intimate conditions. One pictures Mr. Zam almost inundated by applause from listening thousands in a huge auditorium. One feels the thrills that would come from being one of those thousands, to hear that magic touch of his upon ivory keys. All of which would be possible to anyone able to gain admission with other music-lovers to one of his recitals. But the possibility of hearing him in the intimacy of a home, of hearing his exposition of a theme, of talking to him personally (and listening by the way, to one of the wittiest conversationalists imaginable) is of such stuff as dreams are made of, and something almost a part from the workaday world.

And that was the experience befalling Mr. Gustlin's friends last night. The eastern pianist who has achieved a remarkable success in the musical world, is taking the western coast by storm as well. But success sits lightly upon his brow—it but makes him more human and therefore more divine—in his playing. His technique is a remarkable thing, but the soul, the flame that he injects into his music is greatness itself.

The romantic spirit of Beethoven and the pathos and beauty of his compositions, the mysticism veiling upon the unhappiness of Chopin, the classicism of various earlier composers—all were exemplified in Mr. Zam's playing, and all were imbued with his matchless spirit.

Probably one of the most interesting things he did from the modern standpoint, was a satirical little set built upon the old familiar tune of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and done by Edward Ballantyne, an American composer and personal friend of the pianist. Individual composers whose mannerisms were followed so closely that those familiar with their composition little needed the accompanying word of explanation from the pianist, included Beethoven, Wagner, Mozart, Grieg, Chopin, Liszt, MacDowell and Debussy together with several others of equal fame. The composition hasn't been played before in the west and only a few times before eastern audiences where its audacity and brilliancy have caused it to be received first with gasps, then with delight.

No one could be more generous with a talent than was this brilliant guest in the city. Number after number was called for and in every case, he responded with gracious courtesy.

The entire program as offered, was "Novellette" by Schumann; "Sonata in D minor," Beethoven; "Etude in C," Chopin; "Revolutionary Etude," Chopin; "Prelude and Fugue," Bach; "Sonata," Scarlatti; "The Windmills," Couperin; "Scherzo," Beethoven; Paraphrase of "Mary Had a Little Lamb," Ballantyne; "Sonata Tragica," MacDowell and a truly marvelous rendering of the "Sonata Appassionata" by Beethoven as the final number.

Mr. Gustlin, the evening's host, is urging his friend to open a class in Orange county during his stay on the coast, feeling that the advanced pianists of the county would benefit immeasurably by study under him as his pedagogical knowledge of music is as deeply ingrained as is his technique and brilliancy of execution. He plans to spend several months on the coast and will be a guest in the Gustlin home for a week or so longer. It is hoped that he may be persuaded to appear publicly in recital during his stay.

Young Business Man Returns From Trip With Fair Bride

A warm welcome awaited George L. Ball and his bride upon their return to this city yesterday following their wedding of Saturday, June 27, and a northern honeymoon trip to San Francisco and other interesting points.

Mrs. Ball was Miss Vivian Washburn, daughter of Mrs. Maude Chaffee of Napa, and it was at the Chaffee home that the pretty wedding of the young people occurred almost a week ago. It was a late afternoon ceremony to which some twenty-five close friends and relatives had been invited.

The Rev. Mr. McArthur, pastor of the Napa First M. E. church, was officiating clergyman, and the ceremony was conducted along lines of utmost simplicity. Floral decorations were charming and the bride in a smart costume of white, made a most attractive picture. She had no attendants and her flowers were confined to a spray of orange blossoms which she carried with her snowy prayer book.

The ceremony was followed by a brief period of congratulations ere the new Mr. and Mrs. Ball took their departure for San Francisco. They also spent some time at Monterey where, very fortunately, they decided to remain a day longer than originally planned, with the result that reservations made for them at the Arlington hotel in Santa Barbara were cancelled, and they thus escaped being in the ill-fated hotel at the time of the earthquake.

Mr. Ball is manager of the user car department at the Cadillac agency here and has been a resident of Orange county for the past seventeen years. His mother, Mrs. E. J. Ball who formerly resided at Orange, has made her home in Los Angeles for the past year.

Mrs. Ball Jr. will be a welcome addition to the ranks of the young matrons and her sorority affiliations and work at San Jose Teachers' college and University of California will make her eligible to both the Pan-Hellenic society and the University club. She is a Native Daughter of California also.

The young people will go to housekeeping at once at 2220 North Main street.

Birthday Party For Happy Lad

Master Bernard Gorman, son of Mrs. Christine Gorman of 711 East Sixth street, was a very happy lad yesterday afternoon when he celebrated his eleventh birthday anniversary with a number of his young friends.

Games were played during the afternoon and Bernard received a number of appreciated gifts from relatives and adult friends and from the party guests. A fine new suit was presented by his mother.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Gorman served the children with delicious fruit salad, ice cream and cake, the latter being a gift from Bernard's aunt, Mrs. Stephen Heffner. The table was prettily decorated with Shasta daisies.

Women's Relief Corps

One application for membership was received at the meeting of the Women's Relief Corps in the G. A. R. hall yesterday afternoon. Honoring the memory of Mrs. Manuella Smith, a prominent member of the organization, who died recently, the charter was draped at the session.

President Elizabeth Birkhead presided. Business matters were transacted.

Local Playwright Has One-act Presented At the Barn

Community Players night at The Barn, or Barn night for Community Players—whichever it was, 'twas a happy occasion last night when several score members and guests of the Players fore-gathered at The Barn for the July meeting.

Special interest attached to the program features announced by Arthur Collins, in charge of the year's programs, for the entire offering was original with members of the Players. Announcement that Carson Smith's one-act, "Oh Percy!" was to be given had attracted a large crowd of members and many invited guests.

Business matters introduced by the president, Robert R. Shafer, were hastily concluded. Decision to increase the membership to 150, was reached; a "penny-back" whose proceeds might be applied to gifts and kindred minor expenses of the club, was suggested by President Shafer and adopted by the society; invitation from the Laguna Players to present two one-acts at the Laguna Beach Community club on the night of August 7, during their fiesta week and plans for a garden party, suggested by Mrs. Fred Taylor, were all interesting details.

The Laguna Beach appearance will be under the direction of Ernest Crozier Phillips who will make his selection of plays and casts in the near future. Mrs. Taylor's suggestion of a garden party was to raise funds for the purchase of needed chairs for The Barn. She kindly offered the beautiful Taylor home on East Fourth street and was asked to name her committee of aides.

An interesting detail of the evening followed the reading of a suggestion from Roy West, that the name of "Modjeska" might be further perpetuated by bestowing it upon one of the city's new theaters. Opinion was expressed that in view of the fact that Ernest Crozier Phillips, director of the Community Players, received his early dramatic training under the great tragedienne and her influence still lives and is apparent in the organization, the name should be reserved for the theater for the spoken drama which the Players will have for their own in the near future. The suggestion will be conveyed to Mr. West and his approval of the plan asked.

With the formal appointment of Burr Shafer as financial secretary and the invitation (extended through Mr. Phillips) of Miss H. H. el Bonus for the Players to hold a moonlight meeting at her cottage at Arch Beach in August or September when she might express her appreciation of the tree-planting party with which they recently honored her, the business session closed.

Mr. Collins then introduced the program features, the comedy by the Players' own Carson Smith which proved to be delightfully humorous in its treatment and of a highly original nature. Mr. Smith took the title role of "Percival Reginald Fielding" and gave one of his entertaining English impersonations. He was assisted by Julia Beaumont Cummings as "Mrs. Van Pelt," Miss Mary Cianfoni as "Marie," the maid and Miss Nellie Mai Chapman as "Eleanor." Gladys Simpson Shafer proved to have excellent ability as a director, as the play was given under her tutelage.

Scintillant and gay was the original scenario read by Robert Speed as the final attraction of the program after which the usual coffee and sandwiches served under the direction of Mrs. Shafer and augmented by some of Taylor's famous pickles, offered pleasant features to the social hour.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO ONCE DECLARED WAR ON MEXICO, WON, HISTORY RECORDS SHOW

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, July 3.—This little settlement has the distinction of being the only city in the world to declare war on the Mexican government, according to Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, resident priest, who is supervising the production of the mission pageant-play, the fifth performance of which will be given at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the patio of the famed old Franciscan church.

"When this part of California was under Mexican domination, representatives of the nation in power inflicted unspeakable cruelties on the inhabitants of the mission settlement," Rev. O'Sullivan explained. "Driven to desperation and with no relief forthcoming from Mexico City, the handful of residents boldly issued a declaration of war. Although no hostilities of a major nature occurred, the temerity of the citizens brought the desired relief from oppression."

ORANGE, July 3.—The plaza, Orange's circular park, today was credited with another "capture" following the arrest last night of Joseph Dorris, 22, of Hollywood.

After spending the night in jail, Dorris appeared before City Recorder G. W. Ingle, where he pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25.

Declaring he had no money with which to pay the fine, the film director was taken to the county jail. While being searched there, $20 was found in his pockets.

No, not that, but a rare flower anyhow; and recognized by the plant wizard himself, Luther Burbank, as rightful queen of California beauties. And here you see him proudly posed beside her.

Curled up on the back seat of the family car, Max Manig, 5, and his baby sister, Sophie, 15 months, shivered through a long night on a down-town street in San Francisco. Their parents couldn't return to them because they themselves were spending a strange night, in jail on a shop-lifting charge; and they were afraid to tell the police because, it is charged, the car was laden with shoplifters' loot. A cook, passing in the early dawn, found the tots, carried them to his restaurant and fed them. They seemed to have survived the night in good shape.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHES TAKE MOST LIVES

15 Killed in Car Collisions This Year, Compared With 20 to July 1, 1924

Accidental and other violent deaths in Orange county during the first six months of 1925 show a slight decrease, compared with the corresponding period for last year.

The coroner's records disclose that 41 persons were victims of misadventure of various kinds, met death by their own hands or at the hands of others during the half year ended June 30, while at this date in 1924 the figure was 43.

As is to be expected in these days when the motor car transcends all other methods of transportation, auto accidents accounted for the largest proportion of the fatalities, 15 losing their lives this year so far. Last year, to July 1, the figure was 20.

Other accidents, industrial and otherwise, and drowning, were responsible for 14 deaths. This is two in excess of 1924.

Suicides stand at five this year, compared with four during the first six months of 1924.

Two pedestrians lost their lives at railroad crossings in 1924, in addition to those who were killed by trains while traveling by auto, and who are listed under the heading of auto fatalities.

Homicides were the same on June 30 this year as on that date in 1924, four being recorded. Deaths attributed to bad liquor were two last year, compared with one during the first half of 1925.

ARCADIA, Kas., July 3.—Here's a one legged story from Kansas. Lewis Gabel, with one leg, was arrested for driving his car while drunk. A one-legged police judge found him guilty and a one-legged marshal collected a fine of $20 and deprived him of his permit to drive for 90 days.

THREE BATHING BEAUTIES WHO WILL APPEAR AT HUNTINGTON BEACH REVUE

FIRE LOSS FOR CITY REDUCED IN LAST YEAR

Total fire loss in Santa Ana during the fiscal year ended June 30 was $12,105.78, according to figures just completed for the annual report of John Luxembourg, chief of the city fire department. The calls during the 12 months numbered 59.

This is considerably less than for the fiscal year 1923-1924, when the aggregate damage by fire amounted to $26,718.60, and the department turned out for 76 alarms. The figures for 1922-1923 were $21,645.50, with 40 calls.

Reduction in fire loss is attributed by Chief Luxembourg as largely due to the organization of a fire prevention bureau in this city last year, and to the zeal of members of his department.

Many Girls Are Entered For July 4 Revue at Huntington Beach

A bathing beauty parade, in which girls from nearly every city in Orange county are to appear will be a feature of the July 4 celebration at Huntington Beach tomorrow. More than 30 girls will vie for honors. The affair will be the first exclusively Orange county bathing beauty parade ever held.

Prizes amounting to more than $300 will be presented to the winners. It is planned to give a prize to each girl entered in the parade. Many last minute entries are expected to be made tomorrow morning, at the chamber of commerce building, near the pier at Huntington Beach. The winner of the parade will receive $50.

Girls representing Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana, Balboa, Newport Beach, Seal Beach, Orange and Huntington Beach already have entered the parade. Girls from Brea, Buena Park, Olive and other towns are expected to enter tomorrow.

The parade will start from the Antlers club, corner of Walnut avenue and Main street, at 2 p. m. The parade will pass along Main street to a reviewing stand at Olive avenue and Main street, out on the municipal pier, and to the bandstand near the plunge.

FATE IS UNKIND TO SANTA ANA G. A. R. VETERAN

Made dizzy by a heart attack, while driving his automobile on East Washington avenue, H. E. Smith, 919 East Washington lost control of the machine which swerved from the street and struck head-on against a telephone pole.

Smith suffered a cut over one eye, inflicted by a piece of broken glass from the windshield, and a badly bruised knee. His wife, who was in the car with him, has a severely bruised shoulder.

The incident adds another to the long list of accidents experienced by Smith during the last 20 years. Smith, a G. A. R. member for years, was a supervisor of this county.

"These weren't so bad," said Smith, comparing his injuries with numerous others placed upon him by the quirk of fate.

Past injuries include broken bones, received when a horse ran away with him on South Main street, years ago; when he fell from a ladder while picking peaches at his home; when he was hit on the head by the huge shovel of a cement mixer and when he, while riding a bicycle, was run over by an automobile.

"I have been having dizzy spells from my heart for some time," said Smith, "but I had ventured to drive around town a bit, though never more than a few blocks. I've quit even that now, trying to climb a telephone pole once is enough for me. Mrs. Smith doesn't drive, so we have an automobile on our hands."

TRENTON, N. J., July 3.—Because he used his firearms to shoot the hat from another man's head, Trooper Walter C. Pieplow was dismissed from the state police by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent. Pieplow entered a plea of guilty before the head of the state police to shooting the hat from the head of Harry Runyon in a poolroom in Sussex about a month ago. The trooper declared that Runyon dared him to do the act, and he afterward offered to buy Runyon a new hat. The offer was declined apparently in a spirit of friendliness, Pieplow said. Then the victim pressed charges against him.

Germany's Sunken Warships Raised

BERLIN, July 3.—Fishing for the German fleet which was sunk in Scapa Flow June, 1919, goes on apace and already eight destroyers have been brought to the surface. The boats come up festooned with seaweed and barnacles and are then taken to the shipyards for breaking up. The firm of salvagers expects to start on the raising of the 25,000 ton dreadnaught Hindenburg next year.

EACH ORANGE STATE CLAIMS BEST PRODUCT

California and Florida Enforce Mutual Embargo On Other's Citrus Fruit

Of interest to Orange county orange growers is the following article, appearing in the June issue of the Express Gazette Journal, published in New York, commenting on the rivalry that exists between California oranges and the Florida product.

It follows: "California and Florida are intensely jealous of the quality of their oranges. There is not a Californian who will not insist that oranges grown in that state are far superior to those produced in Florida. The average citizen of the peninsula state is equally insistent that the Florida orange has no equal and that the California product cannot approach it."

"This rivalry is reflected in the mutual embargo which each of these states has had in effect for the last five years against citrus fruits emanating from the other state. The embargo has been enforced ostensibly to prevent the spread of insect pest. California oranges cannot enter Florida, nor can Florida oranges enter California."

"This unique situation is naturally reflected in the express business and express agents in each state are constantly on the alert to prevent infraction of the state embargo. Consequently, when the newspapers reported that oranges were being shipped into Florida from California, it created quite a furore throughout the peninsula."

"One of the first to declare it illegal and impossible, was W. T. Jamieson, express agent at Orlando, Fla., who said that his office is constantly refusing to accept shipments of Florida oranges and grapefruit to the California homes of tourists."

Order Fruit Returned
"The only time he recalled, a shipment of embargoed California fruit came from Philadelphia and before delivery had been completed he received orders to confiscate it and return it to the shipper."

Inquiries at the Santa Ana office of the American Railway Express company revealed that no shipment of California grown oranges would be accepted for Florida points.

Hence Californians, accustomed to the luscious valencias grown in this county, must content themselves with the Florida product while visiting the pleasure resorts of the peninsula state, it was stated.

OFFICIALS RETURN FROM CAMP VISIT

Col. S. H. Finley, accompanied by Secretary R. S. Smedley, of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., returned yesterday from a trip of inspection to the Orange county boys' summer camp.

They report that the camp, which is located in the San Bernardino mountains, on the South Fork of the Santa Ana river, is in fine shape, and that the Santa Ana boys who are in camp, are having a splendid time under the charge of Assistant Secretary T. P. McKee. The recent rains have put the mountains in beautiful condition, bringing out the fresh foliage and laying the dust. The boys are entering into their program of activity with great enthusiasm and profit.

The Santa Ana boys will return home Tuesday, when the Fullerton and north Orange county district boys will leave for their two weeks in camp.

Work on the Lions lodge at the camp is progressing, the roof being on, and much of the other work completed.

BAPTISTS PLANNING LONG BEACH MEET

A record attendance is expected for the annual Southern California convention of the Christian church, to be held this year at Long Beach July 27 to August 2, according to Dr. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church of Santa Ana.

The meeting will be attended by ministers and church trustees from all parts of Southern California, or the territory lying between Fresno and the Mexican border.

Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, of Detroit, Mich., a nationally known churchman, is listed among the speakers of the convention.

Swimming Class At Y. Is Success
With most of the boys able to swim across the pool, Physical Director R. R. Russick, of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., closed his first short term course in swimming for small boys yesterday morning. Fourteen boys took the course, and all but three of them have learned to swim. Some have become able to do a little diving, also. All have been helped to care for themselves in the water, it is asserted.

S. A. NATIONAL GUARD LEAVES FOR TRAINING

Three officers and 52 men, comprising Company F, 160th Infantry National Guard, left at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon on a special Pacific Electric car for Los Angeles, where they will entrain tonight for Del Monte, the place selected for this year's camp.

As a result of contributions totaling $158, the members of Company F will be able to enjoy some of the table delicacies which they are accustomed to at home. While the state furnishes the "fundamentals," such as meat, potatoes, bread, etc., companies that desire pie and the like are required to furnish such food themselves. The city gave $100, the Rotary club, $28, and the Kiwanis club, $25.

Relatives or friends who write to the camp should include the words "National Guard Encampment" on the envelope, it was declared today.

The camp will last for 15 days. The first week will be devoted to preliminary training, with the second given over to maneuvers and hikes. Three thousand men will be in camp.

The commander of the 160th regiment is Col. Walter P. Story, of Los Angeles. The men constituting the regiment reside in Los Angeles, Santa Ana, Pasadena and Burbank.

Officers of Company F are Capt. Harry Pritchard, First Lt. Donald Winans and Second Lt. C. J. Waters.

Upon arrival in Los Angeles this afternoon, Company F went to the armory in Exposition park. The Santa Ana men are scheduled to leave Los Angeles with the other companies comprising the 160th regiment at 6:15 o'clock.

Big Land Sale Report Branded As "Propaganda"

Officials at the offices of William Wrigley in Long Beach today branded as "real estate propaganda" a report that the Wrigley interests had purchased the entire beach front at Newport Beach and planned to build a dock as a terminus for a new steamer line to Catalina island.

It was added by the officials that such a report had been circulated by persons, evidently in the business of selling land, at Huntington Beach, Sunset Beach and Seal Beach during the past year, and that there never had been any foundation for it in fact.

"If William Wrigley spends $4,000,000 for land at Newport Beach, as these people say he has, and he intends to open a new line to Catalina, you can be sure he won't attempt to keep it a secret," it was explained. "This report bobs up every so often and there never was an iota of truth in it."

Gretna Green Is Now Love Haven For Orientals

When Frank Quinn, 32, of San Diego, and Marion Lowe, 19, of San Francisco, applied for a marriage license here yesterday, bureau officials looked upon the incident as a rare event.

Despite the fact that Orange county issues more marriage licenses than any other county in the state, excepting Los Angeles and San Francisco, Chinese applicants are few, according to County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Still more unusual was the fact that Frank and Marion are both natives of California. They were smartly dressed in American style and spoke English with no trace of Oriental accent.

Girls Tied Up By Man Advertising For Stenographers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—On his arrest here Mears Hansen, 28 years old, confessed to police that he had tied up, hand and foot, between 50 and 100 girls and women seeking employment from him in answer to advertisements for stenographers, typists and apartment house managers. Beyond the mere tying, none of the women were harmed, police stated. Hansen would pretend to offer employment to applicants, engage them in conversation which he would turn toward jiu jitsu and then would offer to demonstrate that art. After he had bound his dupes he would leave them to disengage themselves.

The Altar Society of Newport Beach Catholic church will give a fancy work bazaar and food sale on the church grounds on 15th street in Newport Beach, Saturday and Sunday, July 4th and 5th.

MILITARY RULE AND DISCIPLINE MAINTAINED AT Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Self-Government Prevails Among Boys on Outing In San Bernardino Mts.

PUNISHMENTS ARE DEALT OFFENDERS

Cleanliness, Respect For Authority and Obedience To Orders Are Enforced

Self-government on lines of military order and discipline, maintained by a camp council elected from the members of the camp, is one of the outstanding features of the Y. M. C. A. summer camp for boys at Camp Osceola, San Bernardino mountains, according to word received here from Clarence Sprague, editor of the camp paper, "The Grumble," and official camp correspondent.

Cleanliness, respect for authority, and obedience to orders, without stinting individual initiative or interfering with self-reliance, are emphasized in the camp orders, and willful disobedience of regulations is promptly brought to the attention of the camp council, sitting as a summary court.

Arrests Made in Camp
The writer adds that already arrests have been made and suitable punishments have been meted out to delinquent members. No mention was made, however, as to whether punishments included "detail for kitchen police" and similar duties.

A daily feature of camp activities is tent inspection, at which the camp manager, accompanied by a "Y" secretary, inspects the condition of each tent. At this inspection everything from bedding to mess kit is required to be in a spic and span condition. To quote the correspondent: "The tent inspection is certainly working wonders with the tents."

Caught in Downpour
Hikes, sports and games form part of the regular camp activities. On June 29, the camp took a hike to Jenk's lake. While on the way, the boys ran into a heavy downpour and the hikers were obliged to take refuge under trees. This incident offered an opportunity for a practical lesson in applying precautionary measures against colds, chills and effects of wearing wet clothing.

Due to the excellent sanitation of the camp, including a rigorous observance of health orders, there have only been a few minor cases on the sick report, the writer states. Visitors at the camp this week included Ralph C. Smedley, general secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. and the secretaries of the Anaheim, the Orange and the Fullerton associations.

Building activities at the camp, according to Sprague, include construction of a mess hall, a new kitchen with drying stand, water heater, and rack to hold tubs, pans and other utensils.

ACTS ON YOST
STAGE SUNDAY

Five acts of vaudeville will be presented at the Yost theater Sunday and Monday. A summary of the program follows:

Bobby Jones presents a most entertaining offering consisting of song and stories right up to the minute. The act is as full of comedy as a good nut is full of meat. Jones has a wonderful singing voice and has the happy faculty of rendering a repertoire of songs, that invariably calls for encore after encore.

The Queen Tut Trio includes three talented young musicians carrying special scenery and special costumes. It is a clever musical number.

Baron Lichter, formerly of musical comedy fame, has re-entered vaudeville with a high class singing and musical act. Baron is a corking good pianist and has a pleasing voice.

The Ozigan Troupe are among vaudeville's foremost dancers. Their presentation from Romy Land is unique. The settings are beautiful. They make a pretty and effective picture of gifted dancers. No. 5 on the Yost spot will be a Rex, the wonder horse, in a scene from "Black Cyclone," current attraction at the West End.

ORPHEUM ACTS
HERE MONDAY

Five acts of Orpheum vaudeville in addition to the picture, "Lilies of the Streets," starring Evelyn Brent and Edward Earle, will combine to make the program at Walker's theater one of interest to all local theatergoers next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

William Gaxton and Company, appearing in a novel one act play, "Kisses," will headline the bill. Gaxton and his confreres now are supporting Sophie Tucker at the Los Angeles Orpheum.

The other numbers on the bill are selected from the program being presented at the Hill Street theater, Los Angeles, at which Junior Orpheum acts are offered. The acts include Jack Redmond, a real golf professional in "On the Links." Redmond's skit is unusual in that he actually makes trick shots with regulation golf balls and clubs on the stage.

Del Chain and Lou Archer, direct from the Princess cabaret and music hall at London, bill themselves as "Oh, I Did Not." The Six Hassens, whirlwind dancers, offer a novelty number. Jack Hanley, a nut comedian, rounds out the bill.

By RUSSELL J. BIRDWELL

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 3.—The mob is dooming Mary Pickford. During the past two weeks, more than a score of persons, representing nearly every walk of life, have told me they think "Mary is through."

As a matter of fact, Mary is more worried about her future than her fans are. Practically, she is seeking stories, which may appeal to the public and restore her to the cinema station she held once upon a time.

Mary, I believe, is willing to meet the demands of the populace more than half way. The recipe I have for her future is drastic compared to the roles she has essayed in the past. It may even sound blasphemous to put it into print.

But if she were to follow this pattern, she would, without doubt, pack theaters like they've never been packed before.

My suggestion (in letter form): Dear Miss Pickford: Bob your hair, don a jazz-baby's apparel and make a picture with a "jazz" theme. Personally I wouldn't go to see it because I don't like these so-called jazz pictures. But with few exceptions, I believe the rest of the picture-going public would.

However, I know you would be a riot, and the hit of a film-mad nation.

Apologetically, R. J. B.

Two years ago Irving Cummings, the director, was enthusiastically telling me of his new film "find." "His name is Robert Gordon," Cummings told me. "I predict that he will become more famous than John Barrymore. He has that aesthetic profile, that almost spiritual reverence in his face. Truly, I can say he is the most natural actor I have ever seen."

The other day I paused before an orange juice drink counter on lower Broadway. I placed a nickel on the counter and Robert Gordon, who might have thrilled the world as a second Barrymore, handed me the beverage.

"The road was too rough," the once handsome youth said in response to my query about movies. "I have found happiness here and even fame in pictures might not have brought me that."

Out on the Boulevard there is a band of Arapahoe Indians, brought here by Sid Grauman to play in the prologue of a picture. The Red-men, the first Americans to invade this foreign Hollywood, are having a chuckle all by themselves. During the past two weeks, due to the initiative of press-agents, they have knighted two movie actresses, Mary Pickford and Marion Davies, as Indian princesses.

Chief Hot-Papa and Squaw Tintin, or whatever their names are, declare there is no such station in the Indian tribe as that of a princess. But the press-agents are happy and the actresses are satisfied. Why? Because Mary and Marion got their pictures in the papers.

Leaves from my Hollywood diary: Louise Fazenda intrigues me strangely because of her suicide complex. At lunch in the Van Nuys she laughingly told me of how she thought of ending it all on the average of twice a week. "She can make them laugh and she can make them cry, and she's beautiful and brainy, and any woman like that is cheap at $2,500,000."

That is the way A. H. Woods, the producer, feels about Mabel Normand, whom he has just signed up for a five-year contract to work on Broadway, New York, and at the same time make a series of film comedies—at least three a year—from the plays in which she appears.

Each week Mabel's little pay check will be for just $5500, and then there will be one-third of the profits of the plays and one-third of the income of the pictures.

"To my way of thinking, she's the best in the business," continues Woods. "God gave her a head crammed full of brains with her beauty. She's the only woman comedienne in the world today and the world wants laughs."

"But Mabel can make them cry, too. She is a great actress and a great artist."

"She has one quality that few possess—she can express with her face what other actors take lines to tell. Beyond question, in and out of the picture business, she is the greatest pantomimist in the world."

"Love and hate, laughter and tears, joy and sorrow, the whole gamut of human emotions are conveyed by her in a single action, a single expression."

"Her plays will be all comedy drama. The world wants to laugh, and Mabel will make them laugh. She has earned all her skill by hard work. She started in at the bottom in pictures. She studied her stories and her parts. She learned her characters. "She read incessantly, books, plays, stories, newspaper. She watched the way people acted and the things they did and when the time came to act these parts she did them."

"She is a creative genius, too. She knew what was clever, funny, skilled, beautiful, artistic. She never slid over anything, but used the wonderful brains that God gave her in addition to her beauty."

"I'm lucky I didn't have to pay $5,000,000. I've tried to get her for Broadway now for five years. I guess I would have paid it if I had to."

"But then, Broadway says I'm a lucky producer anyhow—and getting Mabel is the best luck I've had for a long time."

It is one of the waggish ironies of fate that men who set out seriously to be ponderous figures in the world's work are often yanked out on a theatrical stage to become famous clowns. To wit—Leon Errol.

Errol, who wobbled his undependable knees so ludicrously in the stage and screen productions of "Sally," and who now has been signed for a long term by First National Pictures, wanted to be a surgeon. But two incidents interfered.

An unwitting burlesque of a medical college professor in Sydney, Australia, his birthplace, resulted in a quarrel which cooled his ardor for surgery.

And shortly thereafter a role in a college opera, which he wrote, sped him on his comic way.

He sang coster songs and was pelted with peanuts. Then he tried dancing—and the crowds liked it. Errol says he has probably cured more ailing people with his comedy gags than he ever would have with a surgeon's scalpel.

ACTRESS BOBS HAIR FOR ROLE OF "CHICKIE."

The stage was set. Pictures, rugs and flowers had been precisely adjusted. The lights were ready. The extras were waiting back in the shadows for the word to start. Soft music floated in from the orchestra behind the scenes. In their midst stood Dorothy Mackaill waiting to begin work on her role of "Chickie"—current attraction at the Yost.

The musicians quickened the tempo; the lights flashed on; the director shouted, "Camera! go!" Dorothy stepped into the glare of the lights.

And then—"Stop!" cried Dillon. All action ceased. Dorothy smiled.

"You can't play 'Chickie' like that," said he. "You'll have to bob your hair."

Dorothy gazed in the mirror and saw an exquisite mass of blonde hair, so soft and fluffy as silk. "I can't do it, Mr. Dillon, I can't," she pleaded.

"Can't be helped," replied the director. "Chickie is a modern girl. She is modern in everything. How can you play such a part with all that hair? It may be beautiful, but the modern girl wears bobbed hair. 'Chickie' wears bobbed hair, and so must you."

REX PROVES HE IS REAL ACTOR.

Rex, whose screen debut was in "The King of Wild Horses," over a year ago, again proves that he not only has a fine screen personality, but is an actor of "no mean power" in "Black Cyclone," current attraction at the West End theater. The camera shots of Rex and the other wild horses are magnificent; the action is tremendously thrilling; and the story is intriguingly enthralling.

The marvel of "Black Cyclone" is in its direction by Fred Jackson, for as the picture unfolds, the horses enact its story, which is by Hal Roach, with rare ability. They always appear to do the right thing, and they do it extremely well. Everybody who had a hand in the film must be a lover of horseflesh, for these animals are directed with a tender hand. There is also a love story between humans, but it is the horses who run off with highest honors.

FIVE VAUDEVILLE ACTS
AT WALKER'S

Dancing, singing, musical numbers and comedy are intermingled in such a way that it makes Walker's theater Sunday show one of the best that has been shown in Santa Ana for some time, according to Manager C. E. Walker.

Frank McGown, "The Singing Banjoist," claims that music has charms and he, a master of the banjo, brings them out besides being a splendid banjoist.

Little Different" use all special song numbers. They can accurately be called individual harmonizers for they have a unique manner of presentation.

Gilbert and Marie Van Alst in "Looking Over the Mail" present a riot of fun. Tampering with the mail is a serious offense in the eyes of the government, but the Van Alsts get away with it in such a manner as to remove all the stigma of crime and are rewarded with laughs instead of being convicted.

"Heart to Art" is the title of a unique novelty skit, liberally endowed with laugh producing material which will be offered by Woolsey and Burgess.

Oddities of 1925 in "A Melange of Dance, Song and Music," with Avis, is one of the most beautiful acts ever presented on any vaudeville stage. "Avis" the beautiful dancer of the act has won numerous beauty prizes and once was judged the most beautiful and perfectly formed woman in the world.

FLYNN IN DIFFERENT SORT OF ROLE

"Speed Wild," the latest production featuring that popular actor and athlete Lefty Flynn, is a departure from the previous Westerns in which the former Yale star has appeared. Harry Garson, who produced and directed "Speed Wild," has reason to be proud of his offering, for it supplies Lefty with his best role. Rapid-fire comedy-melodrama, filled with thrills, and a loveable, boyish, devil-may-care character for the star, ensure corking entertainment to the patrons of the Walker theater Friday when the picture begins a two day run. Raymond Turner again appears in a colored character, and comes through with his usual quota of laughs. H. H. Van Loan wrote the story.

"ANY WOMAN" COMES TO YOST SUNDAY.

The efforts of a beautiful young girl to make a cold American business world pay her dividends on an education acquired in an exclusive European school, and what happens when she learns that men are interested chiefly in her feminine charms constitutes the theme of "Any Woman," the dynamic business - and society drama which shows at the Yost theater Sunday and Monday.

Alice Terry has the leading role which reveals another side of her remarkable versatility as an actress, being totally different from any of the characterizations she has previously portrayed.

"The fact that the story of 'Any Woman' was written directly for the screen by Arthur Somers Roche, the brilliant novelist, is positive assurance of an interesting plot. Beatrice Van and Jules Furthman, widely known scenarists, made the film adaptation.

The photoplay is crowded with incident and action, and is set against the fascinating background of big business and smart society. Director King has outdone himself in the matter of stage mounting, and the entire production represents the last word in magnificent settings, gorgeous gowns and lavish display.

Thelma Morgan, Ernest Gillen, Henry Kolker, Lawson Butt, James Neil and Margarita Fischer are among those prominently cast in support of Miss Terry.

S. A. ELKS WILL OBSERVE BIRTH DATE OF LODGE

The 23d anniversary of Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will be celebrated in an appropriate manner July 14, it was announced today by W. M. Gordon, exalted ruler.

Included on the program will be talks by charter members, district officers and members of the Riverside lodge, the instituting organization.

It is planned to have as many district and state officers as possible present at the gathering. Edgar Davis, Long Beach, president of the California Elks' association, and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Crandall, of San Diego, are to be invited. A large number of the 48 charter members is expected to be present. Special invitations have been sent to them, requesting their presence.

"We hope to make the birthday celebration one of the outstanding meetings of the year," said Gordon today. "Santa Ana lodge wants every Elk who can to be on hand for the gathering July 14."

The local lodge has grown from the original 48 members to 864 members, making it one of the leading Elk organizations in the state. An entertainment and "feed" will follow the program, Gordon declared.

Knights of Pythias

Six candidates received the Esquire rank of the Knights of Pythias order at the session of Santa Ana lodge in the K. of P. hall Wednesday night. All attendance records for the year were broken.

The men who received the degree here Wednesday will be in the large class scheduled to receive the Knight rank at a sunrise ceremony in Brea canyon, Saturday morning at 5 o'clock.

Knights of Pythias members from all parts of the state are expected to be present. The work will be in charge of a team of picked men from district No. 31, of which Santa Ana lodge is a member.

The site selected for the ceremony is located four miles north of Fullerton. Lanterns and signs will be placed along the highway to guide the Pythians to the scene.

Santa Ana Pythians and candidates will meet in the hall at 306 1-2 East Fourth street at 4 a. m. and go to the canyon in a body.

B. P. O. E.

Approximately 50 Elks from various parts of Orange county will attend the grand lodge convention of the order in Portland, Ore. July 13-18, it was estimated here today at the local clubhouse.

Advance reports indicate that the big gathering of "Bills" will surpass any previous convention of the order. An elaborate program has been mapped out by committees and all Elks and their families are assured an enjoyable visit, Elks here say.

About 15 Santa Ana Elks and their families will be present at the Portland event, it was estimated. The lodge's official representative is Dr. V. A. Rossiter, past exalted ruler.

The Anaheim lodge's delegate, L. A. Lewis, has already departed for the north, going by automobile. He is accompanied by his father, A. L. Lewis. Some 12 other Elks and their families are planning to attend the convention.

Pearce, secretary, reports. Ten members of the Orange lodge will make the trip, according to T. H. Elijah, secretary. The lodge's official delegate is Al Tomblin.

Masons

Members of Silver Cord lodge No. 505, F. and A. M. and their families held a basket picnic at Orange County park Tuesday evening. Approximately 100 persons were present.

The affair was in the nature of a get acquainted gathering and was pronounced a great success. Dancing was enjoyed following the meal.

The picnic was in charge of Ward H. Sutton, worshipful master of the lodge, and a committee of members.

Rebekahs, I. O. O. F.

Two candidates were initiated and one member was admitted by transfer, at the last meeting of the Sycamore Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows' hall. At the conclusion of the session, refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

A number of Rebekahs from other states attended the meeting. Sycamore Rebekah lodge and Santa Ana lodge of Odd Fellows will hold a joint public installation in the hall, July 11.

Demand this TWO-WAY SERVICE of the cooking fat you buy

Every housewife uses cooking fats both as an ingredient and as a means of preparing food.

As an ingredient, it is the shortening in a cake or the richness in a sauce. It is part of the food, and the housewife should, therefore, make sure she uses only a fat that digests easily.

As a cooking agent, it is used for plain frying, for deep-fat frying, for greasing pans, waffle-irons, etc. Here the fat must not smoke or burn at frying temperatures, and it certainly must not leave the food heavy and soggy.

Fluffo is ideal for all these uses. It is made from one of the most digestible and healthful vegetable oils known to science. It does not smoke anywhere near the proper cooking temperatures. And the air-tight can with the replaceable lid brings it to you as fresh and sweet as the day it was made.

Prove these facts to yourself! Get a can of Fluffo from your grocer. Put it to every test. Bake with it—fry with it—cook with it! If you are not entirely satisfied, tell your grocer, and he will promptly refund the full purchase price.

END OF WATER SUIT POSSIBLY WEEK DISTANT

The third week of the El Capitan condemnation case came to a close today, with end of the trial still possibly a week away.

The defendant La Mesa irrigation district would conclude its valuation testimony today, according to Attorney Charles C. Crouch, unless this afternoon's session was eliminated. Such a move was discussed, because one juror was threatened by illness and the father of another juror was said to be at the point of death.

The city of San Diego, seeking to condemn the El Capitan dam site, may require another week to present its rebuttal testimony on valuation, it was said, assuming that the defense opposition is as severe as that of the city has been.

C. C. Mox, Long Beach realty dealer, today testified that the site was worth $372,000 in his opinion, for use as a country club, hotel and lake resort, golf course, cabin-site subdivision, or quarry. Mox's valuation was much lower than that given yesterday by H. W. Furlong, agricultural engineer, whose figure was $1,000,000.

Didn't Want Estimate
Counsel for the city battled hard to prevent Furlong from giving his estimate, and then to have it stricken from the records, but the defense won the ruling, although Judge Conkling qualified the victory somewhat by announcing that he would explain certain matters in connection with the valuation when instructing the jury. The court apparently wasn't quite satisfied that the estimate was based upon exactly proper considerations, and devoted some time to questioning the witness himself.

Use of the property for a resort would include erection of a low dam, and flooding of the gorge to form a lake.

El Capitan, the witness said, also could be used as a distributing point for water to the surrounding territory.

The city's fight to exclude defense valuation testimony has grown more persistent as the trial proceeds, and has been attended with uniform success thus far, Furlong's estimate being the only one allowed to stand in evidence.

Rulings Favor City
Judge Conkling today maintained his steady rulings in favor of the city, at one point leading to a humorous situation. Attorney Crouch, of defense counsel, had objected to a question asked by T. B. Cosgrove, city counsel. The court sustained him.

Crouch stared at the court in surprise. At the same moment Judge Conkling recollected himself and changed his ruling.

"Excuse me, I meant the objection is overruled."

"Well," said Crouch, "I thought there must be a mistake," and a laugh went around the courtroom.

A delegation of civic officials from the San Diego "back country" attended the trial today to watch progress of the case. They included Henry A. Hall, vice-president of the La Mesa irrigation district; L. M. Washburn, president of the La Mesa Chamber of Commerce; D. M. Jones, mayor of La Mesa; D. Frank Park, member La Mesa board of trustees; D. W. Ball, city treasurer of La Mesa; C. H. Smith and Rueben M. Levy, water commissioners, La Mesa Chamber of Commerce; J. M. C. Warren, Spring Valley rancher; R. E. Ground and George Wilken, representing the Maryland Heights Improvement club; W. D. Hall, president of the Grossmont union high school trustees; Assemblyman Edwin A. Mueller, of El Cajon; and Jack R. Graves, of El Cajon, representing the El Cajon Valley Water Users Protective association.

No More Goodbye Kisses; Husband Seeking Divorce

Adolph Hacker, of Santa Ana, claims that his wife's disposition changed when they moved to this city three and a half years ago. Then they had lived happily together for 25 years. Now they are in the divorce court.

During the period of their local residence, according to Hacker's divorce complaint on file in superior court, his wife was surly, morose and cold. There were no more kisses in greeting and farewell. She only spoke to him in order to scold. His meals were not prepared on time and the house was untidy.

She finally locked him out on May 24, he states.

Besides asking a decree, Hacker wants a court adjustment of his family finances, alleging that the couple has nearly $5000 on deposit in various banks.

They were married in Cleveland, O., in 1897.

Sells Frost-Bitten Fruit; Man Fined

Pleading guilty to selling frost-bitten fruit in violation of state laws, M. L. Fouch, 29, Orana merchant, was this morning sentenced by Judge John Landell to pay a fine of $60 or in default spent 30 days in the county jail. Fouch was stated to have offered for sale 34 boxes of oranges which had been affected by frost. The prosecution was instituted and conducted by George W. Sloop, of the county horticultural department.

Cross Currents Toss Vessel On Harbor Sand Bar

Repetition of the tragedies which have taken place during the last year at the Newport Harbor entrance nearly occurred today when the "Muriel," being towed from the bay to sea, became unmanageable when cross currents struck here. The tow line snapped and the vessel went on a sand bar. Efforts were being made this afternoon to take the men on the boat off by means of a surf line.

Harry Webb, Balboa, who went out in a row boat in an effort to get the tow line, was thrown into the water when the tiny craft overturned. He held on to the boat and was pulled in by means of a line which had previously been attached. Webb was exhausted when brought to shore.

Had heavy ground swells been running, it is likely that the "Muriel" would have been overturned, with probable loss of life, it is believed.

According to Anton Deraga, lifeguard at the Palisades, unless the "Muriel" is taken off the sand bar by this evening, she will be washed on to the jetty and mashed to pieces.

HARDISON TRIAL IS SET FOR JULY 28-29

Trial of M. L. Harbison, of Anaheim, charged with perjury and with libeling the Anaheim city council in a recent attempt at their removal, was today set for July 28 and 29, in department 2 of the superior court. These dates were tentative, being subject to approval of Judge R. Y. Williams, who was absent from his court today on account of illness.

Harbison today pleaded not guilty to both charges, when arraigned before Judge E. J. Marks. He was represented by Attorneys Huberson and Price, Los Angeles, and William P. Webb Jr., of Anaheim.

At the demand of the district attorney, Harbison's bail in connection with the perjury charge, was increased from $500 to $1000. His bail in the libel case remained at $500.

It is charged in the informations filed against Harbison that, when he recently petitioned the superior court for removal of the Anaheim council, which was denied, he falsely swore that the council was aware that C. B. Nichols was an ex-convict when Nichols was appointed city marshal.

Honest Boy Gets $50 for Finding Loser of Wallet

The truth of the old adage, "honesty is the best policy," was well demonstrated this morning in the case of a Santa Ana boy, James Patton, 13-year-old son of B. G. Patton, 1037 West Walnut street.

As the result of Jimmy's honesty he is $50 richer today than he was yesterday.

R. A. Coney, 2208 LaSalle avenue, Los Angeles, left a wallet containing $450 in currency and valuable papers in a public lavatory in the Grand Central market here yesterday. He reported his loss to the local police.

Jimmy found the wallet. He took it home and told his father about it. Patton telephoned Coney in Los Angeles and this morning the latter came out and claimed his property, presenting the boy with $50 for his honesty.

Further proof that old Diogenes would not have to look very far for an honest man if he came to these parts is furnished by the fact that George K. Miller, 411 South Artesia street, this morning turned in to the local police department a pocketbook which contained $28 in currency.

Sgt. B. F. Lutz has communicated with the owner's bank, explaining that the property awaits a claimant here.

PRESIDENT URGES SECURITY PACTS

shall hardly find one who, in his own day, achieved so much as Washington and left his work so firmly established that posterity, generation after generation, can only increase its tributes to his ability, his wisdom, his patriotism, and his rounded perfection in the character of a Christian citizen."

Chief Asks Men To Sign Roster On Defense Day

Entering into the spirit of National Defense day, to be observed tomorrow in connection with Glorious Fourth, L. C. Rogers, chief of the Santa Ana police department, has issued a statement to the men on his force expressing the hope that all members will register for emergency service when the rosters are opened tomorrow.

Incidentally, Rogers when questioned admitted that he intended to sign the rolls himself.

"It will show a great patriotic spirit," reads the chief's message to the men of his department, "if all who can will register tomorrow."

MacMillan Party Reaches Labrador

CHICAGO, July 3.—Donald B. MacMillan, commander of the Navy-MacMillan polar expedition, has reached Battle Harbor, Labrador, according to a radiogram received today by the Zenith Radio corporation. MacMillan's flagship, the Peary, has anchored and the party is safe, the message stated.

BLOOD POISON VICTIM DIES IN HOSPITAL

Austin Wolfert, 40, of 902 East Chestnut street, who was injured in an unusual accident last Saturday, died yesterday from blood poisoning. The funeral services will be conducted in the Smith and Tutill parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery, with the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church officiating.

Mr. Wolfert was working in his walnut orchard when an overhanging limb knocked him onto a chisel, which was being pulled by a tractor. Mr. Wolfert's arm was caught in the chisel and torn open. He was dragged for 100 yards. Removed to the hospital, his arm was amputated by surgeons in an effort to save his life. Blood poisoning set in, however, and little hope was held for recovery.

The deceased is survived by his father, John Wolfert, and a sister, Mrs. John Rathbun, of Santa Ana. Mr. Wolfert had lived here for the last 13 years and was well known.

N. Y. BROKERAGE COMPANY FAILS

NEW YORK, July 3.—The Dean O'atavia company, stock and grain brokers, with branches in several cities, including Washington and Boston, was suspended from the New York stock exchange and from the cotton exchange today, following similar action by the Chicago stock exchange.

A petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities at about $5,000,000 and assets at about $4,000,000, was filed in federal court here immediately following the suspensions.

The failure caused a 6 1/2 drop in Stewart-Warner company's stock and more than a two-point drop in the Yellow Cab company. The firm specialized in these two stocks.

CABINET APPROVES MISSION TO U. S.

PARIS, July 3.—The French cabinet today, after listening to a discussion of foreign debts, particularly American, by Foreign Minister Briand, approved the proposal to send a French mission to the United States this summer to arrange debt funding.

France's plans to consolidate her debts will be further aided by the fact that the chamber early today, by a vote of 410 to 31, after an all-night session, adopted Finance Minister Caillaux's budget, a complete triumph for Caillaux.

At an American banquet today, Briand formally announced France's decision to send soon to Washington a commission to negotiate the settlement.

NEGROES DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 3.—Frank and Lorenzo Noel, Dallas "black terrorists," paid with their lives in the electric chair here early today for the confessed murders of two men and assaults upon their women companions several weeks ago.

Shortly before the march to the chair, both negroes made confessions to Dallas county officers and state rangers.

Frank Noel, in a signed statement, admitted the slaying of W. L. Millstead, Washington, D. C., and an attack upon his companion, Mrs. Mabel Berry, on the outskirts of Dallas. Both negroes confessed complicity in the slaying of Ryan Atkins and assault upon Mrs. Mary Steer.

4 ARE KILLED WHEN TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

SPOKANE, Wn., July 3.—Four persons were killed and another was injured today at Freeman, south of here, when an Inland Electric line train crashed into an automobile on the Palouse highway.

The dead are, Mrs. Henry Olson, 33; Hans Olson, 3; Vera Fry, 16 and Anna Petershake, 16.

The other occupant of the automobile, little Lawrence Olson, 4, was seriously injured. It was not known whether he would live.

Three Blackjack Bandits Sought

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Three bandits were sought by police for mercilessly slugging and robbing three men and a girl in the wealthy Wilshire district early today.

LIONS TO HELP SWELL COFFERS OF CITY BAND

A boost in the "save the band" fund in excess of $2000 seemed possible today, following action of the Santa Ana Lions club, at its official installation of officers meeting held last night in St. Ann's Inn, when each member of the club assumed responsibility for securing donations to the minimum of $25.

Pledging of the members of the club to secure subscriptions to this amount was made by acceptance of the report of recommendations of the board of directors, as presented by Warren K. Hilyard.

To further interest the members in the campaign, the membership will be divided into eight committees of 10 each, with prizes to be awarded to the committee reporting the largest amount. Committee reports will be made at the club meeting each week during the next four weeks.

Will Be Courtesy.
C. D. Cianfoni, director of the band; Harry Hanson, president of band; A. W. Dula, business manager, and other members of the club are identified with the musical organization, and the club has accepted the challenge to raise funds as a courtesy and compliment to its members.

Committee chairmen were announced by Hilyard, as follows: Ray Adkinson, Homer Chaney, Wayne Goble, C. W. Johnson, Roy E. Langley, George H. Platt, R. Carson Smith and J. C. Wallace.

Urging local merchants to place receptacles on counters where patrons could drop in small change as contribution to the band fund, Hanson today announced that "Save the Band" placards were available and could be had by applying to him at the First National bank.

Number Disappointing.
Comment is still being heard about the small number of contributors. The average per contributor is highly satisfactory, but the number who have manifested their interest in maintenance of the band has been disappointing to the officers of the Santa Ana Municipal Band Campaign association, according to Clyde Downing, president.

The fund today totaled $1884.40, contributors since the last publication of the list being as follows:

FELLED MAN DRAWS GUN, KILLS BANDIT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3.—Percy B. Baker, 64, former railroad conductor, shot and killed one bandit and seriously wounded another when they attempted to hold him up here today.

Baker, who is crippled as the result of a railroad accident, was knocked to the pavement by one of the bandits when he was slow in raising his hands. As he fell, he drew his revolver and opened fire from a sitting position. Both bandits started shooting.

Rosolino Bonura, 24, one of the bandits, fell to the sidewalk, mortally wounded. As the other robber fled, Baker emptied his gun at him. He staggered and fell, apparently badly wounded, but managed to crawl to an automobile and drive away.

Then Baker called police.

"It wasn't much of an affair," he said casually. "It vexes me to have robbers shoot at me."

U. S. Cutter Makes Big Whiskey Haul

HOUSTON, Tex., July 3.—The British schooner, Agnew Louise, was captured eight miles off Delta Light, in Bastian bay, Gulf of Texas, early Friday morning, according to word received here today from Hal Foust, Houston, press reporter aboard the internal revenue cutter Comanche. The Comanche is towing her prize into Mobile, say the reports. There are 1400 cases of whiskey and 6500 gallons of alcohol aboard.

Southwest Is Hit By Blistering Day

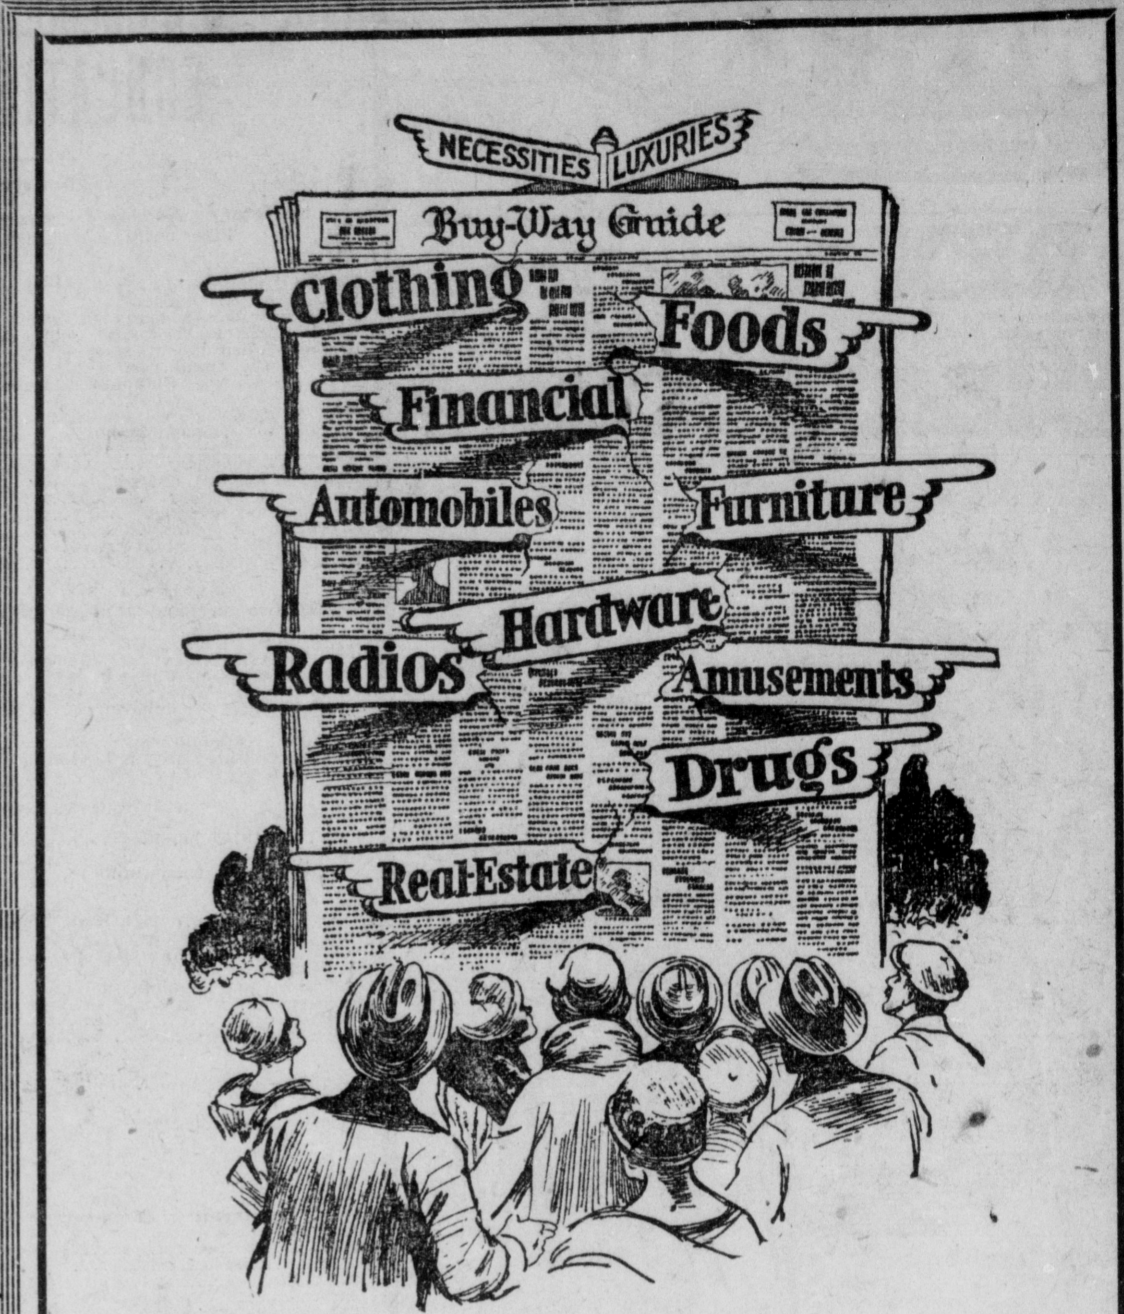

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 3.—Another blistering day greeted the southwest today, with indications that the mercury would soar near or over the 100 mark. Temperatures in Kansas ranged from 97 to 106.

In Kansas City yesterday the maximum temperature was 95. Two persons were overcome by the heat yesterday.

Harold Beaver, 17, was drowned while seeking relief in swimming.

Oil Prosecutors Ready for Appeal

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 3.—Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, special government prosecutors in oil lease cases, are expected to arrive here Sunday to begin preparations for an appeal from Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy's decision upholding the lease of the Mammoth Oil Company on Teapot Dome. The appeal is expected to be taken to the circuit court of the eighth district.

EVENING SALUTATION

They went where duty seemed to call,
They scarcely asked the reason why;
They only knew they could but die,
And death was not the worst of all.
—Whittier in "The Battle of Lexington."

THE FOURTH, DEFENSE DAY

A century and a half of history has been made since 1776; a century and a half of growth and development under the Stars and Stripes.

Today the United States stands upon the governmental pinnacle of the world. Placed there by reason of the fact that it set for itself the high ideal of human freedom and by reason of the fact that it has fought for and has lived for its ideal, this land of ours is today the hope of the world.

Though limitations may be forever maintained controlling the stream of foreigners who would come to this country, measurement can never be placed upon the flow from this land into other lands of the liberty and justice for which this country stands. The whole wide world cannot come to America, but America's sacred gift of liberty can go into every land.

Looking back today a hundred and fifty years, we see small bands of patriots, imbued with the hope of freedom, ready to die for the cause they loved. In that day, liberty had a long way to go before it had a firm foothold upon this earth. The spirit that brought about the events of 1776 is today the spirit of many millions of men and women, and the prospect today for world wide liberty is very different from the outlook faced by our forefathers scattered among block houses and in the clearings along the Atlantic coast.

Our problem today is not a problem of fighting that liberty may live. Liberty is established. True, it has not made its way into every land as we would have liked. Our problem today is that of getting away from the habit of war. We fought for war with powder and bullets because there was no other weapon. Today, we are hopeful that a formidable weapon is at hand, as a substitute. We are hopeful that the time has come when arbitration can take the place of cannon.

We are between two eras, between the era of force and the era of reason. How far departed from one and how far into the other we have entered cannot be determined.

That we may be in a position to protect ourselves in case the old era has not passed, we find it necessary to continue to maintain an army and a navy. We find it necessary to be prepared to take care of ourselves in whatever events may transpire in an unsettled world. And so tomorrow, the Fourth of July, is designated at National Defense Day, that we may keep in mind the fact that in spite of our fervent hopes that there will be no more war, the situation the world around is such that no one can tell what a decade will bring forth. It behooves us to stand by ready to do whatever is necessary to protect the flag that was first unfurled a century and a half ago. There will be no more war if we can prevent war, but if war comes the best traditions of American arms will be sustained, and men will die for the flag, just as they have died in years gone by.

THE PRICE OF SAFETY

Years ago the usual thing for a newspaper to do on the day before the Fourth of July was to issue a warning to the public to be careful about the use of explosives and fireworks. Times have changed. The thing to do today is to warn the public to use care on the highways and in the mountains.

The menace today is a menace of traffic—traffic on the highways, where accidents may occur any moment almost anywhere, for nobody can tell when a fool driver will "do his stuff," and traffic in the hills, where a neglected campfire or where a lighted match or burning cigarette stub thrown away carelessly, may start a conflagration.

It behooves each of the many thousands of automobilists who will go forth this afternoon, or tomorrow, for Fourth of July week-end tours or camping trips to keep in mind the fact that caution, these days, just as it was in the days of the giant tracter and bursting anvils and skyrockets, is the price of safety.

"LEST WE FORGET"

It may be that there is good reason, or any reason, why the press and other publicity agencies of the East should take occasion to magnify any accident or misfortune which comes to California as "a calamity" and "unprecedented disaster." If, however, such reason exists, it has not been made public so far as known.

California is unfortunate in the fact that her wonderful growth and development, during the past twenty years in particular, seems to be resented by a lot of good people living beyond the "Rockies." These people, be their object what it may, have already set about the task of making the most of the earthquake shock which, on Monday last, did a lot of damage at Santa Barbara (but nowhere else in the state) and killed a dozen people.

If misfortunes, brought about by climatic conditions or otherwise, were peculiar to California, our Eastern fellow citizens might be forgiven for their peculiar behavior. But no part of the United States, or of the world, is immune to what Shakespeare termed "moving accidents of flood and field," and, compared with some parts of these United States, California has had less than her share of such.

Without waiting for statistics, it is safe to say that for every person killed by earthquake in California, a hundred are killed by cyclone in the middle west, and for every dollar of property destruction by earthquake in California, hundreds of dollars worth is destroyed by cyclone and tornado in the Mississippi Valley.

For example we happen to have at hand a newspaper of June 16, 1924, which contains the following items of telegraphic news, sent out by one of the great news gathering organizations:

SIoux FALLS, (S. D.) June 16.—Partial restoration of wire communication throughout the area swept by Saturday's devastating tornado reveals that at least 15 persons were killed and inestimable damage done to many towns, villages and hamlets. No definite figures can be given yet to the number injured by the twisters.

The terrific winds almost wrecked Washington Springs. The business section, composed of several brick buildings, was completely razed. No loss of life was reported. Bijur Hills, where eight persons of one family were killed, suffered a similar fate. Two persons were killed at Canton, two at White Lake, two at Salem, one at Pierre and one at Blunt.

Wrecking crews are restoring wire communication as quickly as possible. The storm area extended from Mitchell to the extreme eastern border of the state. Heavy rains and electrical storms accompanied the tornadoes.

SIX BODIES FOUND

ELIZABETHTOWN, (Tenn.) June 16.—Rescue parties at Garden Bluffs, near here, today recovered six bodies of victims of the tornado and cloudburst which struck this section Saturday. Other bodies are believed to have been swallowed up by the swollen rivers of the Watauga river and may never be found. Property damage, it was said today, will exceed $1,000,000.

TORNADO IN IOWA

OMAHA, Neb., June 16.—A tornado which swept northwestern Iowa yesterday injured several persons and did considerable damage to crops throughout that vicinity. The tail-end of the storm swept down through Council Bluffs, where it sent Indian Creek out of its banks, flooding the Illinois Central and Northwestern tracks. The vicinity of Dunlap, Missouri Valley, Logan and Dale also suffered from the storm.

And there is nothing unusual or exceptional about this. Such news is quite common to the newspapers of almost any date between May and October, or to be more accurate and conservative, hardly a week passes during the summer months without a cyclone or tornado somewhere in the country beyond the Rockies, and frequently they are of devastating proportions, such as the cyclone that swept portions of Indiana, Illinois and Missouri only a few months ago.

Now so far as the press of California was concerned, these occurrences and hundreds of similar nature, were not exploited as something so dreadful so unprecedented and so peculiar to the localities wherein they happened, as to call for special mention, to say nothing of hysterical comment.

In the newspaper from which these excerpts were taken they were found tucked away on an inside page, while the first page was given over to the doings of the Democratic convention at New York, the political news of France and Mexico, and other things and matters of importance.

The eastern and middle western states of these United States are on precisely the same footing as the rest of the world in the matter of floods, cyclones, yes, and even earthquakes.

It is well, at times, to recall this fact to mind—"lest we forget."

California Fourth

Stockton Independent.
California is now in its diamond jubilee year since its admission to the union. It is the last western frontier of continental United States. The past 75 years of its history have seen intensive development of its varied and wonderful resources. It is a state of many wonders, but not the least of its wonders is the remarkable achievement of putting itself among the leading states in so comparatively short a period of national history.

As an instance of the relation of the state to the other states in the union the figures from the statistical department of the United States Internal revenue department speak eloquently.

According to those figures California is the fourth state in the union for the number of persons who made income tax returns; it is fourth in the total amount of net incomes taxed; and it is fourth for the total amount of income tax paid. The relative positions of the leading states as shown in this report on income tax for the year ended December 1923, and published today, is as follows: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California.

New York leads with a total of 1,221,654 returns, a net income of $4,670,167,176, and a total tax payment of $202,159,777. Pennsylvania follows with 740,478 returns on a total of $2,741,322,702, and a tax of $80,310,092. Illinois is third with 676,489 returns on a net income of $2,359,199,649, and a tax of $64,807,592. California shows 517,109 returns on a net income of $1,714,551,490, and a tax of $40,254,388.

Figures talk. They may be twisted, but in the face of such impartial and authoritative data, the position of California as the fourth state in the union in income tax payments, and on net income returns is significant of its prestige among the states.

Hitherto Americans have looked to the great industrial eastern states as the leaders in wealth and finance. But with the development of the agricultural and industrial wealth of the west, California takes its place from all eastern states but such well established industrial states as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

California is only in the midst of its growth. It has still marvelous resources that are yet to be tapped. Its hydro-electric power is now the greatest in the world. Its irrigation systems are still being evolved to tap great areas of land that are not yet under intensive cultivation.

Stockton and San Joaquin county are doing something to aid in this great development. The deep water channel from Stockton to the sea is but one of the many projects in this region that will add still greater prosperity to the great valleys of the state by developing industry through water transportation.

Such figures as those in the income tax report are instructive as showing also that the state of California has a more widely distributed level of lower incomes, and consequently a better distribution of its wealth among its people.

We have not so many millionaires as the eastern states, but we have more persons to the square mile who are earning taxable incomes than all but the three other states just ahead of California.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

BAD AIR CAUSES HEADACHES
Bad air is one of the most frequent causes of headaches.

Among the poor it is not uncommon for quite a number to sleep in one room, sometimes with all the windows and doors closed tight.

As far as the closing of windows and doors are concerned, the poor are not alone guilty.

Men, after sitting at a desk all day, gather in close rooms and play cards at night.

Or if they retire, they close all the doors and windows.

Fortunately people are gradually learning that fresh air is not poisonous, and that fresh air does not bring on colds.

Upon retiring raise the window at the bottom, and lower it at the top.

Stand in front of the open window after arising in the morning, raise the arms gradually, inhaling deeply as it is done.

Then drop the arms, forcing the air from the lungs.

If the office is not too far from the house, walk the distance, and see how fresh and clear the mind becomes.

Ugliness is Expensive

Kansas City Times

Members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards are in a position to know the cost of ugliness. In its meeting at Detroit this week the association called upon states and cities to regulate billboards because "the indiscriminate use of signboards retards the development of desirable districts and tends to destroy values." The real estate men recognize the fact that nobody wants to live in a billboard district. That is the section where property rarely is in demand. Ugliness, whether in the form of signs, shacks, dilapidated structures or other unsightliness, is a genuine liability to any community or city.

The real estate boards are exercising good business judgment in seeking to deal with this situation. For some time the national association has been opposing ugliness in another respect. It has been urging cities to clear up the unsightliness about railroad stations and railroad entrances to the centers. The surroundings of the average station and railroad approach are first to be viewed by thousands of visitors to the cities. They create an unfavorable impression at once. They are repugnant, not inviting. Aside from any other considerations, attractiveness pays in money. If the real estate interests can help to get that idea across they will perform a valuable service.

THE SHIP OF STATE
(Dedicated to Defense Day)

Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity, with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate.
We know what master laid thy keel,
What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast, and sail, and rope;
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were forged the anchors of thy hope.
Fear not each sudden sound and shock—
'Tis of the wave, and not the rock;
'Tis but the flapping of the sail,
And not a rent made by the gale.
In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore,
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!
Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee—
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee—are all with thee!

—Henry W. Longfellow.

Tell-Tale Tracks

Hal Cochran's
DAILY
POEM

I took up the trail of some wee little tracks, that lead from the yard to the door. I followed them inward, these bold muddy facts, and they hid for the living room floor.

All over the carpet, in circles they went, with always some mud left behind. I knew right away, what the trail really meant, but the tracker I vowed I would find.

On through to the kitchen, and then to a shelf where always a cookie jar stands. I peered in the jar—then I took one myself. 'Twas missed by some wee little hands.

The footprints then led to the door in the back, and the mudspots were suddenly spent. And there stood a tot, at the end of the track, eating cookies in youthful content.

A wee little thing is the child in the case. The mother of their place is the fretter. But, shucks, tell-tale tracks in all youth have their courses, 'cause a tot doesn't know any better.

At Bunker Hill

New York World

When Webster delivered his Bunker Hill oration in 1825 he exhorted the twenty-four states to cultivate a true spirit of union and harmony and to develop a settled conviction that they were one country. The passage of a century found Charles E. Hughes delivering yesterday a different but equally salutary message.

There is no question nowadays of the solidarity of the nation. Mr. Hughes, like other observers, is alarmed lest the standardization and solidifying tendency go too far and asks for a renewed emphasis upon local and state individualism. Sound self-government, he asserts, implies diversity. Webster expressed the lesson of Bunker Hill for his own day in saying, "We are one country, our whole country, and nothing but our country." Mr. Hughes expresses it just as forcibly for our time in saying, "When we lose the right to be different we lose the privilege to be free."

Bunker Hill was to Prescott's volunteers primarily a struggle for local freedom. None but New Englanders stood behind the revolt. They were in arms against the efforts of the crown to abridge the liberties of a single province. As yet the idea of a continental union was little grasped and the thought of national independence was viewed with repugnance. The governmental principle which swayed the majority of Massachusetts patriots was simply that they must stand by their sacred charter and reject the British claim that it could be whittled away or altered without mutual consent.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 5—THORNS, SPARKS AND WIND

"What do you want?" asked Twelve Toes, the Sorcerer, as Nancy and Nick appeared at his front door.

"We came to get the rainbow-colored balloon for the Sour-Old-Woman-Who-Lives-Under-the-Water-Fall," said Nick.

"Humph! I don't care if you came to get it for the Dear-Old-Man-Who-Lives-on-the-Moon," said Twelve Toes. "You can't have it."

"That's too bad," said Nancy, "for we have to get it some way."

Twelve Toes looked suspicious. "How can you?" he asked. "Have you any magic along?"

"Just our shoes," said Nick bravely.

"Oh, ho! You don't carry things with your feet," said Twelve Toes.

"No, but we run with them," said Nick, who had spied the many-colored balloon floating in a dark corner near the ceiling.

Seizing the balloon by its string, he was off with one bound, Nancy close at his heels.

Twelve Toes was so surprised that he almost forgot to gnash his teeth as he always did when he was disappointed—or surprised—or cross.

The twins were over the Wobly Mountain before Twelve Toes quite realized what had happened. Then he was too far behind to follow, so he waved his magic wand and muttered:

"Eier-brier limber lock, Thorns grow thick, their way to block."

Instantly a thicket of thorns appeared before the twins, directly in their path.

Remembering what the Sour-Old-Woman had said about thorns, Nancy pulled Nick by the coat-tail.
